George was like an older brother and supportive father to my husband. They spent many years together and became family. George was very proud of my husband Greg's work in the music industry. George watched over Greg so he would not injure his hands doing yard work, he would say to me that Greg's hands are his life's work. George would call us and see us through difficult life situations we were going through. He was always very concerned if Greg or I had any medical difficulties. George and I spent many sunsets together, as our home was located behind his. I miss watching the sunsets in the evening with George. (although I still feel him on the property enjoying the beauty of the earth) Losing George has been heart breaking and life shattering for myself, my husband and our neighbors who have lived on George and Doreen's property for 13 years, They loved George like their family too. George is missed everyday by all of us on his beloved property. We have all shared so much love here together as a family.
