Fortunata Bayudan Bumanglag

OCT 21, 1923 - OCT 31, 2024

Fortunata "Natang" Bumanglag was born on October 21, 1923, in San Nicolas, Ilocos Norte, Philippines. She was the beloved wife of the late Noberto "Berto" Bumanglag†.

Fortunata was preceded in death by her dear siblings: Ambrocio Damo Gilia†, Elias Damo Bayudan†, and Filomena Bayudan†. She is survived by her cherished sister, Benita Alvarado.

In the Philippines, Nana Natang was a skilled craftswoman, creating ceramic pots ("banga") and woven fabric ("inabel"). She was also an entrepreneur, selling produce such as tarong, utong, balatong, and sitaw.

In 1984, Nana Natang and Ama Berto immigrated to San Francisco to help their son, Victor, in raising his children—Mariane, Vanessa, and Mark—and starting his business. Later in the 1990s, they moved to Maui, where they spent the remainder of their lives, nurturing a family rooted in hard work and resilience.

They lived in the old Lahaina Farms plantation homes, where Nana Natang worked at Gerard's Restaurant as a dishwasher until her retirement. She then took on the full-time responsibility of being a stay-at-home grandmother to her grandchildren—Krystille, Krizhna, and Karisa—in their Lahaina home.

While at home, she enjoyed tending to her garden, caring for her paria, tarong, and roses. A faithful woman, she found peace in her church community and was devoted to daily prayer.

In 2017, Nana Natang moved to Hale Makua in Kahului, where she was surrounded by love and care from her nurses, including her niece, Helen Bumanglag, and other dedicated caregivers like Angie Jen, and Marissa.
